The United Nations

TWO PROMINENT CANADIANS have recently drawn attention to the fact that the public is not generally aware of the work which is being carried on by the various organizations of the United Nations. Dr. Bygon Chisholm, Director General of the World Health Organization, and Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair, Chairman of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, have both expressed this opinion in public addresses in Canada in recent weeks. It is true that in the minds of most people the work of the United Nations is associated mainly with its activities in regard to the political relations of the member nations and in dealing with international differences which arise.

Work Meeting With Success

We are reminded however, that the Food and Agriculture Organization, the Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, the World Health Organization and others are engaged in carrying out the programme of services planned when the United Nations was formed. Dr. Chisholm stated that the public might be encouraged to know the success with which some of this work is being accomplished and the extent to which the member nations have been able to reach agreement on many points. While the political relations between countries are important, and undoubtedly much of the hope for world peace rests upon reaching agreement in these matters, we are reminded that the raising of standards of health, education and living generally is also considered necessary if we are to stamp out war.

Are Working For Peace

As long as there are underprivileged people, lacking proper food, medical care, education and economic security there will be political unrest and danger of war. The various organizations of the United Nations are fighting these conditions in many parts of the world, and in doing so they are not only contributing to the welfare of humanity but are attempting to eliminate the underlying causes of unrest. In considering the work of the United Nations, this part of its activities should not be forgotten, and we should be encouraged by what is being done to conquer ignorance, poverty and disease in many parts of the world through the efforts of this world organization.

GARDEN NOTES

Now Vegetable Seeds
So Harvest May Be Spread Over Many Weeks

Spread Them Out

The season may be short in most parts of Canada but this does not prevent a succession of vegetables. The trick is to make several sowings of such things as beets, beans, lettuce, radish, carrots, etc. It's a good plan to sow about one or two seeds a week or so earlier than usual, then follow with a third about the normal time, then a fourth, or so late as the plant. This will spread the harvest out over many weeks, still greater spread can be obtained by using early, medium and late varieties.

Tools

One can do a lot of gardening with just a rake, a spade and a hoe. With a little more equipment, however, much labor can be saved. Digging forks, cultivators, special weeder, Dutch hoe, etc., will make the work easier and more interesting. They are designed for special jobs. No matter how few or how many tools are selected it is important to keep their edges sharp. An old file is excellent for this. Sharp tools will save many a back-ache and blisters.

For larger gardens a small garden tractor that will cultivate, plant, cut the grass and do other jobs might well be considered. There are now coming on the market freely. They are not expensive and are very cheaply operated. A quart of gas will keep them hustling for several hours. A wide selection is also available.

A Cutting Garden

Offer a corner of the vegetable garden or some place at the back of the lawn in aid to some flower show especially for indoor bouquets. Sometimes when a large supply of blooms are wanted for this purpose it leaves the regular borders a bit shy. Any of these flowers available for cutting purposes will thrive on the same sort of cultivation, etc., that the vegetables get. Certain flowers, indeed, like gladioli, sweet peas and others of which the foliage is not very attractive, best grown under these conditions.

Survey Shows Increase In Prairie Chickens

YORKTON, Sask. — Based on a two-day survey of game bird and animal population, indications are that prairie-chickens are increasing in number in the district east and south of Yorkton, Harold Dighton, local game guardian, reported.

Mr. Dighton said that he and another member of the game branch had toured the area around Saltcoats and Rokeby by bomber and during the two days counted 196 sharp-tailed grouse along country roads. He said that at this time of year the birds favor the main highways where they can obtain gravel. "It seems to me the chicken population is just about at a peak right now," he added.

A POOR SUBSTITUTE FOR REAL THING?—Two members of the R.C.A.F.'s 436 Thunderbolt Squadron participating in the Korean spirit, operating outside Tokyo, are seen watching the preparation of a popular Japanese dish, Sukiyaki, in one of Tokyo's largest restaurants. Sergeant Norman Dixon, (right), of Montreal, appears to relish the thought of sampling the tasty dish, while Corporal Ray Rasmussen, of Exeter, Ont., probably thinks that there's nothing as good as home cooking. Both men are ex-pilots of last war.—Central Press Canadian.

Grenfell Pilot First To Fly Jetplane Across Atlantic

OTTAWA.—The first Canadian pilot to fly the Atlantic in a jetplane, Squadron Leader Cal Bricker, D.F.C., of Grenfell, Sask., is back in Canada, discussing jet-fighter operations with R.C.A.F. officials at Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa. The 29-year-old squadron leader is on exchange duties with the U.S. Air Force with whom he flew the Atlantic last July in an American Thunderbolt.

Born in Regina, S.L., Bricker entered the R.C.A.F. in January, 1940, won his pilot wings, and after serving as a flying instructor in Canada, went overseas in March, 1944. He flew a tour of operations over the continent on Spitfires with 430 and 443 squadrons, winning the D.F.C. After the war, he remained in Germany on occupation duties for a year, returning to Canada in 1946 to be attached to the Canadian Army at Rivers, Man. There he served as assistant chief ground instructor until selected as an exchange officer and sent to the U.S. in January, 1950. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Bricker live in Grenfell, Sask.

Funny and Otherwise

Judge: "Young man, when you stole that money, didn't you think of your future?"

Crook: "I certainly did, your honor. I took it straight to the bank!"

Two ants were running along a cracker when one of them said: "Why are we running so fast?"

The other answered: "We have to—it says right here, 'Tear along the dotted line.'"

The stingy farmer was scoring the hired man for carrying a lighted lantern to call on his best girl. "The idea!" he exclaimed. "When I was courting I never carried no lantern. I went in the dark."

"Yes," said the hired man, sadly, "and look what you got."

The milkmaid in the closet is sometimes responsible for the wolf at the door.

"Why did you put me in the room with that fellow?" asked the indignant patient.

"The hospital is crowded," the doctor explained. "His he been troublesome?"

"Troublesome!" He's crazy! Keeps looking around and saying, 'No lions, no tigers, no elephants! And all the time the room's full of them.'"

Father: "And there, my son, you have the story of your dad in the great World War II."

Son: "Yes, daddy, but why did they need all of those other soldiers?"

Brandon Farmers To Erect Streamlined Self-Feeder Barns

Probably First Of Kind In Canada To Handle Cattle With Minimum Labor

BRANDON, Man.—What are probably the first all self-feeder barns in Canada are to be erected by P. C. Morand and A. M. Macpherson, resident farmers in the Assiniboine valley west of this city. Plans for the erection of the streamlined buildings for the handling of cattle with a minimum of labor, have been drawn up after much research work. Construction of the buildings will be undertaken early this year.

The buildings will be each 80 feet long, 40 feet wide and 24 feet high. A large room built in the shape of a giant hopper will supply cut fodder to a large cement manger, running the full length of the building.

A 20x40 utility area is provided at one end of the barn and will be separated by a light partition. This will be used either as a milking room or as pens for special stock requiring additional care from those in the open pens.

The entire frame of the structures will be set up with wood laminated rafters made by Dring Brothers of Boissevain.

Ground grain will be supplied from a hopper in the centre of the barn to which is attached an electric crusher, automatic waterers, electrically heated, will keep a constant supply of fresh water before the cattle at all times.

In the use of loose pens which provide a minimum of at least 50 square feet per animal, it is not necessary to remove any litter from the pens for a period of 200 days which covers the time cattle are housed in this part of the country. Pens will require bedding heavily with clean straw once in every 10 days. At the end of the feeding period the pens are quickly cleaned with a machine.

attached to the front end of a farm tractor. It is estimated that 10 minutes per day is all the time that will be required by one man to care for 50 head of livestock.

The handling of cattle, both dairy and beef in loose pens is rapidly gaining favor with farmers over the entire American continent. It is used extensively in the mid-western states and in Alberta.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

The Matchmakers

By Louis Arthur Cunningham

He Promised He Would Do
His Best To Love Her And Make Her Love Him.

"BUT I've never seen the girl!" protested Tad Berkeley to the greatly old giant who was the author of his days. "Anyway, how do you know she'll want me?"

Tad, as he soon found out, was trading hard on Big Bill Berkeley's temperamental corn.

"Don't be a young fool!" exploded Big Bill. "Tom Raleigh's an old devil and your fate and his daughter's before either of you saw the light, before we were married, in fact. It was one day after we'd struck rich. Tom says, 'When you have a son and me a daughter or vice versa, Bill, we'll make them marry. I'm certain neither could do better.' We shook hands on it right out there in the foothills—we've stuck to our bargain. But you don't get yours and she doesn't get hers unless Tom and me see you spiced before we go, and make . . . yes, sure . . . a little kiddie bargain to you. You're going to Los Angeles tomorrow. You're to meet Tom's Constance at a place called Purple Mountain, where Tom has a home. I'll give you a month."

The old man's sincerely weighed mind with Tad that his own offer of distastefulness could have done. He looked resigned. "I'll go and meet her, anyway, and I promise you I'll do my best to love her and make her love me. But there are many things . . . What does she look like?"

"She sent you a picture. But don't judge by looks."

"Lord have mercy!" Tad recoiled from the intellectual visage, the tortoise-shell glasses in the photo of a truly formidable young lady.

Nevertheless, Tad went to Purple Mountain. He found the great house deserted by all except its master, Tom Raleigh, Big Bill's partner.

"She's gone!" said old Tom disgustedly. "Rebelle! Said she wasn't going to be stampeded into a marriage with any man. She's around Los Angeles with a hell-skin' Bolshevik woman called Kate Marquise."

Relieved, Tad referred to look for the truant. He might be able to increase her antagonism.

Tom Raleigh agreed. "Know what she looks like?"

"Yes, oh yes! I have studied her picture till I could recognize her. I was blundered in the catacombs. Tad craved the suburbs looking enthusiastically on a girl with an equal-right-for-women cast of countenance."

tenance. He found her at last in a tearoom that her father had mentioned, drinking tea in a dispirited way with several other girls and holding forth on the world's problems. The place was a sort of intellectual stamping ground.

Tad, whose hunger was not great, watched from behind a chocolate éclair and trembled like the dove who expies the snake which may discover and fascinate him.

There was a dainty bit of bluff who came and settled on a bench near Tad's. She, too, was watching the dangle girl as though trying to attract her attention. She had the rarest blue eyes and the kind of hair that best accompanies them.

She dimpled prettily.

"Excuse my boldness," said Tad, but would you mind telling me if that young lady over there is or is not Miss Constance Raleigh?"

"Why, why not? I mean yes, of course. You do say so?"

"Tad had no unkind intention to someone. 'And there you are,' said Tad when he had finished his tale. 'I don't love her; she doesn't want me, and two fond papas are doomed to a disappointed old age.'"

"You must meet her, anyway," said the sympathetic little thing, "and then you'll know. Too much tea is bad for her."

Constance, when Tad was present, greeted him frigidly and began a dissertation on aboriginal matrimony. Tad dragged her to a taxi.

"Old Tom was on the steps when they reached Purple Mountain. 'If she is, air,' remarked Tad brightly."

"What is . . . where did you find that Socialist agitator?" demanded old Tom. "Where is my daughter, Katy Marquise? You made her run away."

The lady Bolshevik had not said a word during her trip out with Tad; now she laughed.

"You're an old tyrant, Comrade Raleigh, but I think she's coming back to you. There's her car now!"

"You must meet her, anyway," said the sympathetic little thing, "and then you'll know. Too much tea is bad for her."

"I knew I'd bring you around, Constance. Are you ready to obey me? You owe Tad an apology and how did he get hold of Katy?"

"Oh, I'll fix it up with . . . with Tad," smiled the rebel.

"Thanks for your photo, Katy. I'll give him a real living one now."

Big Bill and old Tom sat fancy themselves as matchmakers and look upon little Thomas William Berkeley, their grandson, as though they said "they were responsible for his existence."

New Notre Dame College At Nelson On Co-operation Basis

Students Study On Home-made Desks And Perform All Non-teaching Tasks

NELSON, B.C.—An "education co-op" is how Principal A. L. Cartier describes Notre Dame College since its opening here last fall.

Studies take place around home-made desks and tables and the students perform all the non-teaching tasks.

The atmosphere is very informal and a great deal of the initiative for study comes from the students themselves.

The five boarders pay $30 a month for board and room and Nelson students pay $5 a month tuition.

A student who can't pay does a bit of extra work to help meet operating costs.

The curriculum this year is limited to first year arts or senior matriculation. By next fall, it is hoped students may be able to obtain recognition for all the non-teaching tasks.

Mr. Cartier says the aim of the school is to make college education available to everyone, young or old, in B.C.'s interior, whether or not the student can afford the usual costs of such education.

All that students need are books, a place to work and teachers to help them. The cost of the material is not too high, he says.

Mr. Cartier received his bachelor of arts and masters degrees from the University of Vancouver. He is a post-graduate work at Laval University in Quebec and at the University of Montreal. Later, he taught in elementary and high schools, the University of Alberta and at Notre Dame College, Graysonburg, Pa.

WESTERN BRIEFS

Increase Tuition Fees
EDMONTON.—An increase of about 50 per cent in all-tuition fees at the University of Alberta was announced by President Andrew Stewart. The increase is a result of a board of government's decision, and takes effect immediately. Summer session fees will be raised along with those for the 1951-52 term.

Want Flat Tire
WINNIPEG.—The Manitoba Motor League has recommended a flat $10 license fee for passenger vehicles. Present rates, ranging from $9 to $24, are out of line with those in most of the other provinces, the league said in a brief to Premier Douglas Campbell.

Bags Six Timber Wolves
ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta.—Ray Mustard collected bounties on six big timber wolves he shot on his trap line on the Ram river. He encountered a pack of 20 which had killed a cow moose and bagged six of them before they fled.

Vital Flat Missing
VANCOUVER.—Freddie Harestead's car went off the road in icy weather and into the chert. He managed to force the car back on the highway and was starting to roll when the car stopped. Investigators said the gas tank was still in the ditch.

Growers Lost Money
VICTORIA.—The 80 potato growers on southern Vancouver Island lost thousands of dollars because the late frost delayed the time for shipment to eastern Canada for Easter. The potato crop is normally worth $300,000. Last year's growers lost about $100,000 because of unusually cold weather in March. It's the same story again this year, plus an early Easter. 2547

All Sorts Of Records Broken At Calgary Sale

CALGARY.—Records of all sorts tumbled at the Calgary spring bull sale. It was reported the most successful in its 31 years of operation.

A total of 710 animals brought $797,025 for an average of $1,125 a head. Counting the $24,000 of fat stock and baby beef sold earlier, a grand total of $821,019 changed hands.

Last year, 1,152 animals, 452 more than this year, sold for $109,410 less than this year's sale total.

Sale of 133 Shorthorns brought $109,800 or an average of $825 an animal, a record.

The highest price ever paid for a Canadian Hereford bull sold in Canada was realized as the reserve grand champion, Lorne Ross's D14D, commanded by C. H. McDougall of Calgary.

Previous high for the Calgary sale was set in 1946 at the $8,000 mark.

A total of 597 Herefords sold for $620,275 or an average of $1,225, another record.

The average of $963 per animal in the Aberdeen Angus class also set a new record.

SERVING ALBERTA

Town & District

Mr. and Mrs. Buhr have gone to California for holiday.

Gleichen may have an Armory in the near future. Plans are underway.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stumerster left Sunday for Banff where they intend to spend a few days.

Bob Bick, principal of the local schools was a visitor to Winnipeg recently.

George Kramers, the well driller, has purchased a house in Standard and will move out there soon.

Edgar Taylor, who is janitor of the Gleichen schools and also for the Bank of Commerce paid a business visit to Vancouver last week.

Dick Cameron, who has been town engineer for the past couple of years has resigned his job and has joined an oil company looking for oil.

After an absence of six months visiting relatives in the States Mrs. Cunningham returned home last week. She says she is glad to be home again.

Lloyd Anderson has purchased the residence owned by Mrs. Walter in a couple of months time Mrs. Walter and two children will pay an extended visit to the Pacific coast.

O. MacLean has sold the Strathmore Standard to his brother H. P. of Calgary. Mr. MacLean has purchased an interest in another newspaper.

A. F. MacCallum has been one of the busiest men in town for the past week or so issuing car licenses on behalf of the province. Between 700 and 800 are sold here each year.

Miss P. Bogstie who has been a resident of Gleichen most of her life moved to Calgary Tuesday where she will reside in future. Miss Bogstie has been a member of the local telephone staff for the past several years.

Mr. Penber Ostrander, of Regina, spent Monday in town attending the funeral of his father J. E. Ostrander. While here he was guest of his cousins Mr. and Mrs. Ken McPhee. Mr. Ostrander is Dominion Government Inspector of Indian agencies in Saskatchewan.

The Gleichen River went on one of its flood aprees last Thursday afternoon for the first time in 1951. It did the same thing during the last two afternoons. The water covered the floor of the fire hall; H. Colpo's store and J. Fontain's store any where from two to three feet deep. For the past week or so Jack has had no very little business on account of flooding. For days before the creek went on the rampage the melting snow on the main street poured into the old laundry adjoining the west side of Jack's store from there it seeped into his store chasing out the customers. Regardless of the water and the loss of business Jack's smile was just as big as ever.

For several days past some of the side streets have been a quagmire and a curse to car drivers. On Prosperity Avenue cars get stuck every day when any driver is foolish enough to try to drive over it. There isn't much that can be done about the road until it dries up. About the only thing that can be done is to fill the ruts with cinders. The corner where the post office is located has to be seen to be appreciated and it is probably the busiest intersection in town. Fortunately the mud is not over rubber tops on the crossings. But get out of a rut at the post office and see how deep the mud is. A peculiarity about most of the lakes in town last week a lot of them disappeared Friday night. Evidently the frost came out of the ground permitting the water to seep away.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our very best thanks to anyone who helped in any way at the Easter tea. Also thanks to people who attended despite the mud.

him back. He tried to grope for the reins but only frightened the horse, who kept just out of his way. The policeman tried vainly to catch the horse for an hour, but he knew he could not leave the trail or he would be lost. The food and blankets were secured to the saddle and his situation was desperate indeed. He walked on but as the snow was deeper and softer than he expected he was soon exhausted. He blew his whistle. He fired his revolver and he continued to try to catch the horse without success.

Three days and three nights passed when he lay in a shadow, exhausted, starving and chilled to the bone, sank down in the snow, completely beaten.

The stage was nervily bowing along when the passengers heard a persistent neighing of a horse. The stage horses answered.

"There's something the matter," said the driver "let's investigate, when." There lying in the snow, all but dead, was the policeman. Round him the snow was trampled with the boot prints of two's passage in the snow. Ruffs the Outlaw stood by his master in his great distress and begged for help. Hate and fury had long been pent up in his breast but in the hour of great need he had been faithful to the man in scarlet.

On the Control of Thistles (A New Circular)

The eradication of Canada Thistle and Perennial Sow Thistle presents a most difficult problem, particularly in the relatively moist areas of Western Canada.

Control With 2,4-D. An application of 5 to 8 ounces of 2,4-D acid per acre, made when the thistles are growing vigorously and at the early bud stage, will generally give effective top growth control and prevent seed setting, but will not kill the roots. When regrowth occurs, repeated 2,4-D treatments (two or more years) combined with late fall cultivation, is usually needed to completely eliminate these weeds. Yes, 2,4-D is valuable in thistle control, but black summer-fallow, late fall tillage, the use of suitable competitive cereal crops, and the seedling of infested land to forage crops are still the most practical and successful means of thistle eradication.

Cultural Control Methods. As the reserve food supplies in the roots and underground stems of thistles are at their lowest ebb just before the plants bloom, plowing or one-way discing during the early bloom stage, followed by cultivation at intervals of 15 days until freeze-up, is recommended. The use of a suitable competitive crop, such as fall rye or an early variety of barley, is another effective means of eliminating thistles. Few stands of thistles will survive the competition offered by forage crops or two consecutive crops of fall rye.

A new circular, prepared by Mr. H. J. Mather of this Department, entitled "Canada Thistle and Perennial Sow Thistle Control," is ready for distribution. Free copies may be obtained from local grain buyers of the Line Elevator Companies listed above, or from the Line of the Prairie Provinces, Winnipeg, or Calgary.
